Welcome to the HughesJR.com forums.

This site was hosted on a shared cPanel server, however while there (as many of you know) we had major security issues.

We have since moved the site to a dedicated server with the CentOS-4 operating system and have enabled mod_security and SELinux (docs for using SELinux with CentOS or RHEL).

Hopefully putting the site on a dedicated server (where we control the security updates) and enabling the extra security options will take care of the security issues we were having before.

For security reasons I am starting all databases from scratch. This means if you once had an account with HughesJR.com you will need to register again. I am sorry for inconvenience, but I think this is the best decision.

Thanks to everyone and lets see if we can't stop these script kiddies from hacking sites so we can publish some Enterprise Linux information.
